Questions ROSCO tactics

Rex Pryer resigns from the Robles del Rio water board

Rex Pryer, who is resigning from the present board of the Robles del Rio Water Co., issued the following statement regarding his action:

"As a present member of the Board of Directors of the Robles del Rio Water Company, I am submitting my resignation effective with the next board meeting and request that my name be withdrawn from the ballot in the forthcoming election.

"I have decided on this course of action as a result of the recent controversy over development of the golf course and in particular because of the tactics of the newly formed group, ROSCO, headed by Robert Read. The tactics being used by this group have been characterized by throwing a smoke screen of half-truths and accusations, involving personalities around the basic controversy which now is, 'Shall any development of the company's property ever be brought to a vote of the shareholders?'

"This group, if in majority control of the board, is pledged to see that it shall not.

"While a member of the board, I have been neither strongly for or against redevelopment of the golf course. Contrary to the information circulated in the past few weeks, the present board considered such development not as a means of personal gain for themselves or a few individuals, but on the basis of interest shown in such development at the annual meeting of 1966, to which all shareholders of record were invited.

"The withdrawal of my name from the ballot will mean that no majority from the present board can possibly be elected. Perhaps those who wish to consider development of a golf course in some fashion or who want the way open to consider it at a future date will wish to nominate a slate pledged to this. This would enable shareholders to make a choice independent of consideration of actions of the present board.

"The land, contrary to the most recent ROSCO letter, was deeded as a golf course, not as open space. It belongs to all shareholders equally and may be redeveloped as a golf course by majority consent. The leaders of ROSCO, as adjacent property owners, are determined that this shall not happen.

"They, more than any other shareholders, enjoy the golf course land as an extension of their own properties at the expense of everyone else; they are not about to give it up without a fight. They should not, however, presume that they speak for the majority until so proven, nor should they engage in smokescreening, accusations and personality involvements in attempting to win a majority to their views."

Work to begin at once

Natural gas to become a reality in Valley as 405 sign up with PG& E

PG&E is all set and ready to start construction immediately on the natural gas line to the Upper Valley, according to Tom Riddle, district manager. Barring unforeseen complications, Valley residents will be enjoying the advantages of natural gas service in three or four months.

Monday morning, the number of applications had reached 405, and by Tuesday, materials were already being delivered and a meeting was being held with the County Road Dept. setting up regulations for the construction period.

Two temporary storage yards will be set up during the construction period, one at Rancho Fiesta and a second at Del Fino Pl. and Pilot Rd.

The first of next week, PG&E will begin laying pipe and completion of the project should be in three or four months, depending on the weather.

The company will also continue to survey adjacent areas to see if further extension is feasible. The present map brings the pipe up Carmel Valley Rd. through the Village, Ford Rd., Pilot Rd., Lupin and Lilac Lane, Via Contenta, lower El Caminito, Via Milpitas, portion of Poppy Rd., Merrill Way, Del Fino, Paso Hondo, Paso Mediano, Paso Cresta, portion of Flight Rd., and all of Robles del Rio except Buena Vista del Rio, Piedras Blancas and Agrinemsores. The main line extends to Rippling River Resort on the Valley Rd.

Noel Van Bibber, Valley representative, said that although they were starting work a good month later than they had hoped to, that in three months service should be installed. Again, he reiterated Riddle's statement ...if we get a break in the weather.

Van Bibber said that persons who were interested but were waiting to see if it became a reality would be urged to sign up now so that connections could be made during the initial period.

Benefit barbecue reminder

Don't forget the benefit barbecue Saturday for the Kathy Ocampo fund. Steaks and all the trimmings will be served continuously from 2 to 9 p.m. at the Trail and Saddle Club grounds on the east end of Garzas Rd. Tickets will be available at the gate (or at Village stores) with prices set at $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children.

A reminder...No one, not even volunteer workers, gets fed without a ticket!

Proceeds from the barbecue will assist the Ocampo family in paying hospital and surgery expenses.

CV Fiesta board to meet Oct. 2

A meeting of the Fiesta de los Amigos Board of Directors (all organization representatives) has been called for Monday, Oct. 2 at 5 p.m. at the Carmel Valley Realty office.

Treasurer Tom Hefling expects the committee's share of profits earned from Fiesta booths to be in by that time.

CV Lions Club White Cane Days are Sept. 29-30

"The Lions Club White Cane Days give Valley residents a chance to help those who may not see as well as they do," Bill Stowers, local chairman, said yesterday. Both Friday, Sept. 29 and Saturday, Sept. 30 will be White Cane days and Lions and Lionettes will be in the Village to give away tiny white cane lapel pins in exchange for donations to support their Sight Saving Fund.

This year, on Friday, Guide Dogs for the Blind will provide an instructor and a dog to demonstrate how the animal can become the eyes of a person whose sight is deficient. He will show how they are trained to function as a team and really "see" together.

At 12 noon, the demonstration will take place adjacent to Dr. Petkus's office. At 1 p.m. there will be another at the side of the Valley Cinema in the Mid-Valley Center.

Students and faculty at Carmel Middle School will have an opportunity to see the dog and instructor work together at a 2 p.m. assembly at the school. Then at 3 p.m., there will be a final demonstration on the lawn mall area of Carmel Rancho Shopping Center.

The Lions Clubs of America have dedicated much of their service work to help the blind. In California, each club uses its White Cane money to fill the broadest needs in its community.

CV Lions Club provides eye examinations, supports dog training, and provides eye operations and research through membership in the Lions Eye Foundation.

"Remember, support your Lions Club these two days — wear a white cane so that others may see," chairman Stowers added.

Don't burn!

Even though there has been RAIN in Carmel Valley, open burning season has not started. With only .4 inch of water landing on the parched ground, the fire danger is still just as high as it was.

TEACHERS SHARON JONES on the violin and Joe Broadman on guitar were joined by Carmel School District superintendent Dr. Harris Taylor for a musical interlude at a teachers' picnic held at Saddle Mountain last Friday. Dr. Taylor's instrument is called a Devil's Fiddle and is fashioned after one that was common in early England. It has strings and incorporates a snare drum and bass drum which are activated by banging it on the ground while hitting the strings. Said Dr. Taylor, "When I get a chance to play with professionals like Sharon and Joe, it makes even me sound good." (Photo by George T.C. Smith)

Cypress Swim Club 3rd in Pacific AAU Invitational Stunt competition

The Cypress Swim Club closed its 1967 competitive synchronized swimming season on a high note last weekend, placing third in over-all team points at the Pacific AAU Invitational Stunt Meet at Danville, Calif.

Bonnie Banker and Jan Roehl each won silver second place medals in their respective age groups, while Kathy Neill, Geri Brandly, and Susie Selfridge took bronze thirds in theirs. Fourths were won by Sharon Roehl and Kim Pilkenton; a fifth by Judy Snyder, and sixth by Lindy Doud.

Among the newer Cypress members, Melanie Sayers placed 18th, and Lynnda Zarp 23rd.

Swimming in their very first competition, Kathy Blevens placed ninth in her age group and Wynn Norwood placed 20th in hers.

Eleven clubs from throughout the Pacific AAU region were represented in the one-day meet with 112 competitors entered.

Jerilyn Fox elected to head Junior Mints

The Junior Mints of the Carmel Convalescent Hospital recently elected officers for a nine-month term.

Jerilyn Fox was elected president; Kathy Lompe, vice president; Nani Lewis, secretary; and Jan Jaseau, treasurer.

The post of Personnel Director, a newly created job to train new members, was filled by Danny Sullivan. Terri Rahe was made Publicity-Program Head.

Thanks to you, we had to move.

We're not complaining you understand. In fact, we're grateful.

If it weren't for you and our Monterey area customers, we wouldn't be in our new and larger office facilities at 555 Abrego in Monterey.

Schwabacher's Monterey office has had a substantial increase of business. Because of this, and your obvious confidence in us, we have expanded our facilities and services.

We'd like you to visit our new location. Look what's in store for you.

First of all, we've almost doubled our floor space. (From 1,600 sq. ft. to 3,000 sq. ft.) You, as a customer, enjoy more comfort and convenience.

And to help you invest, Schwabacher has increased its staff and installed the most modern market communication equipment available.

For example, in our new Abrego Street location we've added Stockmaster desk units which provide account executives with complete price information on selected stocks.

We've also included a Trendicator unit which electronically projects Dow Jones averages and volume.

A special direct wire is now in service from Schwabacher's Monterey facilities to our New York office.

New York and American Exchange information is instantly quoted on our large Lectrascan unit. This electronic quotation board is installed and in operation.

As you can see, we've made some big improvements in our Monterey office. We'd like to invite you to come in and see for yourself.

Our Schwabacher staff is anxious to show off our new quarters. Come in for a visit and maybe we'll talk over your investment program.

Folk dance troop from India to perform at MPC Music Hall

The Punjab Folk Dance Troupe, winner of a country-wide folk dance competition in India, will perform at Monterey Peninsula College Saturday, Sept. 30, 8 p.m. in the MPC Music Hall.

Free tickets for the program will be available at the college or may be obtained by mail from the Community Services Office at MPC when requests are accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

Monterey Co. Symphony launches fund drive

Urgently in need of funds, the Monterey County Symphony Assoc. this week opened a campaign to raise money.

Symphony Fund Committee Chairman Philip C. Smith noted that in addition to reaching an audience of more than 20,000 annually, the organization also sponsors a comprehensive youth program, develops regional talent, provides educational opportunities, and benefits the local economy.

This year's budget exceeds $50,000, he announced and pointed out that no symphony orchestra in the country is self-supporting. "We need the help of the community to continue the sound of fine music in Monterey County," he said.

Smith has asked Mrs. Donald Criley, Mrs. Roderick L. Dewar, Mrs. Rody Holt, Mrs. Robert McMahan, Mrs. Carl Menneken, Mrs. James Moore and Mrs. Arthur Stewart to serve on his committee.

For information on how to help the non-profit association, contact one of them or the symphony office, 624-4125.

Carmel Padre varsity gridders smothered Gustine 20-0 on the home field Saturday and the Carmel JVs also won handsomely 19-0.

Carmel meets Holy Cross this Saturday also on the local field.

Padre frosh lost 25-14 at Gonzales Friday night.

After a 0-0 first quarter, Carmel's Newman in the second quarter sprinted 35 yards for the initial TD. The Padres' next counter didn't come until the fourth quarter when Steve Hall crossed the goal line in a 25-yard dash. The Padres' third score again saw Hall going over, after halfback Doug Updike intercepted a Gustine pass.

Carmel to open cross country season Thursday

Carmel High cross country runners will officially open Mission Trail League competition this Thursday at 4 p.m. in a center meet at York School.

Something different, except for Thursday's opening meet, will be tried this year in center meets. Three joint center meets, to include both Mission Trails and Monterey Bay League runners, will be held at York Oct. 12, 19 and 26.

Running against the stop watch, at least two different complete series of races will be run between 3 and 5:30, JVs at 3:45 and JV reserves at 4, freshmen series of the same races to start at 4:15 and a final varsity race at 5:30. Maximum runners in any race is limited to seven, except for no limit on JV reserves.

Theory of the new system is to permit schools which are closer to start sooner than schools whose athletes must come from a long distance.

The Mission Trails Central Coast sectional meet is scheduled Nov. 22 at Pacific Grove.

Back-to-school night for Padre Parents at Carmel High Oct. 9

Back-to-school night for parents at Carmel High will feature the first fall meeting of Padre Parents Monday night, Oct. 9, from 7:30 to 10.

Dr. Harry G. Bullard, president of Padre Parents, will preside at a brief meeting to begin the evening. New Principal Arthur Gumbrell will be introduced.

Parents are asked to pick up at the office their children's schedules which they will follow for 10-minute periods in the classrooms where teachers will give brief talks.

4 boys semi-finalists in National Merit Scholarship program

Four Carmel High senior boys have been named semi-finalists in the 1967-68 National Merit Scholarship program.

They are Adrian Arima, class president; Brian Cronwall and Clifford B. Perry, all of Carmel, and Don E. Harrison of Carmel Valley.

Constituting less than 1% of graduating seniors, about 14,000 semi-finalists throughout the nation will compete for about 2,900 merit scholarships, valued at more than $8 million, to be awarded in 1968.

Dress code

Do schools have a right to mind the manners as well as the lessons of their students?

They can regulate "bizarre dress of students if it is a disturbing influence on the other students." This is the premise on which Carmel High is basing its ban on beards, moustaches and long hair.

Dress standards, which reflect community standards, are nothing new. School authorities are in the unenviable position of judging where to draw the line – of deciding where "distracting influence" begins.

Principal Arthur Gumbrell contends his "rules" are not hard and fast. He adds that each case is considered on its individual merits. In practice, this has meant tolerance of a boy whose long hair is part of his equipment to play in a rock and roll band.

Supt. Harris Taylor cites several law verdicts in favor of schools on similar questions. His point would be strengthened by a decision just last week on a long-hair argument in Fremont High School district, which covers Sunnyvale and Cupertino. Judge Bruce Allen refused to grant an injunction at the request of the American Civil Liberties Union to stop a long-haired ban. The boy's father in this case, although he says he personally dislikes long hair on his son, backs his right to wear it that way, and plans to pursue the legal battle further.

While we have thought of bobbed-haired boys as too lady-like for our taste, Time magazine's approving cover story of the Beatles last week may startle the older generation into realizing that times do change, and rapidly. And moustaches and beards, even without the excuse of a Fiesta for wearing them, can do something for a gent's ego.

Frankly, we hope long hair at the school doesn't obscure more important things.

IN SHORT

CONGRATULATIONS to Sam Brandt and best wishes to Lisa Buchenroth whose families were united by their marriage on Sept. 15 in Carson City, Nev.

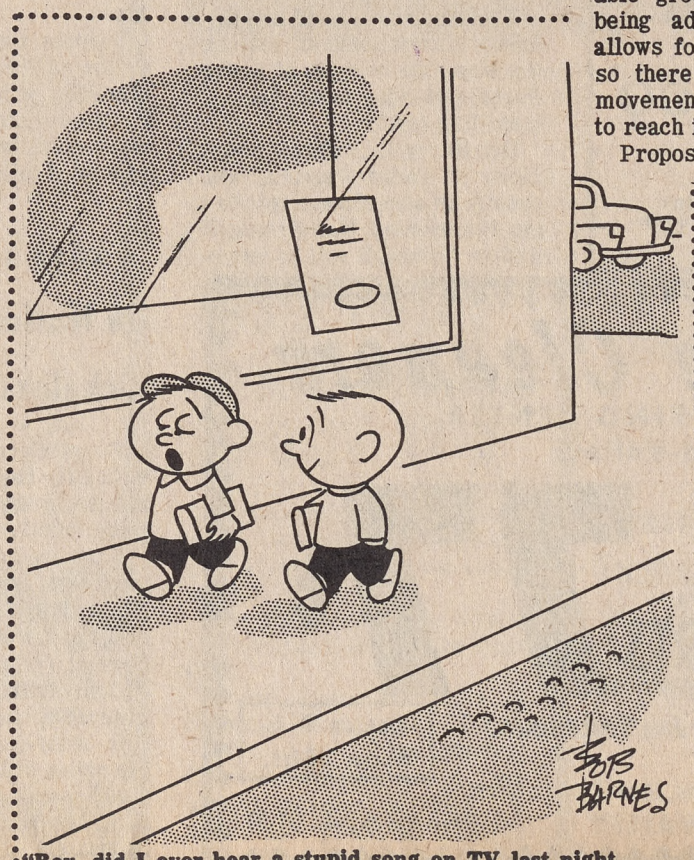
WANTED!! One Toreador last seen walking about the Fiesta de los Amigos grounds. Seems that the "U. T," (unidentified toreador) won a first place blue ribbon for his appropriate Fiesta garb, but after the judges had reached their decision he could not be found to accept the award.

Anyone knowing the illusive bull fighter is asked to have him report to the office of Dr. E.P. Marcucci to collect his ribbon...

ADDING GLITTER to the La Playa Hotel during the Jazz Festival weekend were European jazz greats Svend Asmussen, Miljenko Prohaska, Flavio Ambrosetti, Franco Ambrosetti, and Jean-Lou Ponty. Arriving from New York was musical director for the Festival, John Lewis. Stage and screen star Anthony Franciosa, KSFO's Al Collins, and the impromptu rehearsing of the Chubbiachis Quartet, added to the fun.

"THE DAY when American hospitals can assure parents-to-be that 'we haven't lost a mother yet (let alone a father)' may be near at hand," according to Dr. A. Carol McKenney, president of the Community Hospital's board of trustees.

The hospital hasn't lost a mother in childbirth in the past 20 years, Dr. McKenney reported.



"Boy, did I ever hear a stupid song on TV last night . . . School days, school days, dear old golden rule days! . . ."

SCHOOL NOTES

Middle School adds 43

Now that the fall semester has begun, The Outlook will continue to keep people in the district informed on what is happening at each of the schools.

This week, Carmel Middle School principal, Orville Rogers, tells of some of the activities at his school.

Middle School enrollment this year jumped to 755 students. This is an increase of 43 students over the last day (June) count. Despite the influx of some 118 new students the first day was the smoothest in three years as a Middle School. With this many new students and the aim of placing students in workable groups, classes are still being adjusted. The program allows for shifting of students so there will always be some movement in various sections to reach individual needs.

Proposed Parent-Faculty Club programs for this year include Dr. Taylor speaking on "Progress Since the Override" in October; Mathematics Dept. in November; the annual Christmas program in December; Science Dept. in February; Applied Arts Dept. in March; an open house in April; annual Science Fair in May. Parents can support the school and learn more about its program by joining the Parent-Faculty Club. Dues are $1.00 per family. Co-presidents this year are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bresk.

Twenty ardent chess-playing 5th graders came to school one hour early on Sept. 21 to form the first Middle School Chess Club. Tim Hrusa was elected president. Miss Christy and Mr. Lastinger are sponsoring the club which will meet once a week for members to play. Tournaments will be held at the end of the semester.

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Outlook:

Some time ago, while I was visiting friends in the Valley, I purchased a copy of The Outlook, and I was really surprised. I found the entire paper very interesting and very much to my liking.

I have enclosed a check made out to your paper, in the amount of $3.50, as to cover the cost of a one-year subscription. I'd like to thank you for a delightful newspaper, and I do think the people of Carmel Valley are terribly lucky.

I shall be anxiously awaiting the arrival of my first issue.

Sincerely,
(Miss) Donna Fisher
Anaheim, Calif.

Editor, The Outlook:

This is just a brief note to thank Warren Douglas of the Douglas Disposal Service for placing the trash receptacles at the Fiesta this year and for hauling away the rubbish all at his own expense. The residents and business people of Carmel Valley can be thankful for having such unselfish people as our neighbors.

Very truly yours,
Larry R. Cummings

The Rhyming Philosopher

It's fun to indulge in some lyrical verse
Which jingles in musical phrasing,
With nothing to say for the better or worse
Or mingles with news that's amazing.

There's trouble enough, so we'll willingly share
A laugh or attempts to be funny;
For times to be happy are getting so rare
We welcome the day when it's sunny.

So here's to the nonsense of old Mother Goose,
And a sneer for the stern and symbolic.
There's times to be formal, but that's no excuse
For failing to frisk in a frolic.

The best of us balance the bad with the good
And temper our labors with laughter,
Which eases the tensions as laxity should
For what we've got now, not hereafter.

All work and no play is a killing device
Which doesn't make sense for a minute.
So sing a bit, swim a bit, do something nice –
Like go find a lake and jump in it.

Talk on taxes

By MARJORY LLOYD

TAX TALK... "I have no ready answer to help the Carmel taxpayer," State Senator Donald L. Grunsky told the 100 or so persons at last week's town meeting on taxes sponsored by the Carmel Citizens Committee. His remark gave the consensus of the panel discussion and following question-and-answer period in Sunset Center auditorium. Besides Grunsky, panel speakers were Monterey County Tax Assessor Donald P. Stewart, Mayor Steve Grant of Carmel and Clayton Neill Jr., President of the board of education of the Carmel Unified School District.

LITTLE FAVOR... Explanations of current property taxation met with little favor, judged by sparse applause given each panelist. However, Harold C. Arnot, president of the Monterey Peninsula Taxpayers Association, and City Councilman Gunnar Norberg, were loudly applauded for their criticisms of the present property tax structure.

SOARING SALES... Real estate values in Carmel, based on sales during the past five years, have greatly increased, Stewart stated. The county assessor's office must continually review and analyze real estate sales in order to assess property at fair market values. Such practice led to reassessment in Carmel and property owners received notification of the increased value of their holdings in July. A fourth of the assessed market value, as required by law before 1971, was set up as the county's taxing base.

So long as all property is assessed on the same basis it makes no difference whether the taxing base is

Outlook on Carmel

Section of the Carmel Valley Outlook

Mark Raggett reminisces

"The people, not Carmel, have changed"

Not only is Mark Raggett a native Californian, but he is also the son of two native Californians. His father was born in San Francisco and his mother was born in nearby San Juan Bautista.

Mark, who came to Carmel to establish a retail drygoods business in 1946, was raised in San Jose when it was "a lovely little town." Hope, Mark's wife was also raised in San Jose and their two sons, Michael and Jon were born there, although they moved to Carmel before they were in school.

However, the Raggetts were already familiar with the Carmel School system since Hope had taught kindergarten at Sunset School before they were married.

PUTNAM and RAGGETT'S

When Mark came to Carmel to go into business with Frank Putnam it was not on a whim. Prior to the decision he had been in the wholesale clothing business, so he knew his way around.

After operating as partners for about 16 years, Frank decided to retire and Mark bought out his share of the business.

Although the official name of the Ocean Ave. store has been Raggett's for the past five years, Mark says that it is still regularly referred to as Putnam and Raggett's.

Mark has been a member of most of the business and civic organizations at one time or another and spent four years on the Board of Trustees of Monterey Peninsula College. For two of these he was chairman.

His favorite hobby is sailing and he has served as Commodore of the Stillwater Yacht Club. He sails an 18-foot Mercury both in the races and just for fun. He says he doesn't win ..."It's the kids who do that."

He added the comment... "My wife hates sailing!"

TOURISTS NOW

Comparing the rate of change between other cities and Carmel, Mark said he feels Carmel is doing well holding its own. He thinks the feeling of the town hasn't changed too much, it's the people who come here that have changed. Back in the forties, most of the houses near the beach were summer rentals and families came to spend the whole summer in Carmel. Now the groups in summer are mainly transient tourists, here for a few days or a week.

The biggest problem Carmel has, he feels, is to find some means of solving the parking problem without changing the face of the town.

In the meantime, shoppers seem to flock in and out of the double dutch doors at Raggett's even if they have to park a number of blocks away.

Piano concert opens Women's Club season

Carmel Woman's Club will open its fall season of meetings with a musical program running the gamut from Grieg to Gershwin, and from Rimsky-Korsakov to Irving Berlin.

The program will be presented by Charles Dytton, Berkeley pianist, at the Clubhouse on Monday, Oct. 2, at 2 p.m.

Mr. Dutton, who is a radio and recording artist, terms the afternoon's entertainment "American Piano Playing since 1899," and traces the styles of popular music since the turn of the century.

Working his way through University of California as an orchestra leader, Mr. Dutton went on to orchestrate musical scores, and enter the radio and recording field.

Mrs. Robert Bannister, Woman's Club president, has announced recent appointments to the club's board of directors.

Mrs. Walter C. Adams will act as rental chairman; Mrs. Lewis Hulse is librarian; Mrs. John Caldwell is telephone chairman; Mrs. Clare Appleby is parliamentarian; and Mrs. J.R. Reeves is ways and means chairman. Mrs. M.P. Mack is in charge of the house and garden section for the coming year.

Mrs. John J. Adams and Miss Lyla Adams are hostesses for the month of October.

Presiding at the tea table for Monday's meeting will be the club's past presidents, including Miss Ianthe Densmore, Mrs. Alex W. Cleary, Mrs. Rhea Diveley, and Mrs. J.R. Lynas.

Local artists at San Juan Bautista

The 22nd Annual Art Show sponsored by the San Juan Bautista Chamber of Commerce will open Saturday, Sept. 30 and continue through Oct. 15.

A large number of Carmel and Carmel Valley artists have entered the competition which will be hung in the Brass Lantern Gallery. Hours are from 2-8 p.m. daily.

Valley entrants include Jean and Fred Hofsas, Helen Greer and Helen Gapen Oehler.

Artists from Carmel who have entered the show are Anne Carlson, Alberti Conti, Kathryn Aurner, Barbara West, Mary Twisselman, Jeanne Bellmer, Rosemarie Menke, Bettie Scheldrup, Nancy Johnson, Bernice Huber, Cecile Bellick, Nina King, Dorothy Bigger, Albert J. Crundall, Tatrana Koslova and Natalie Balls.

The jury consists of Donald Teague of Carmel, John Cornin of Berkeley and Fred Maxwell of San Francisco.

Paintings by George De Groat at Laky

Recent paintings by George De Groat are being shown at The Laky Galleries until Oct. 15.

DeGroat says of his work, "By combining and rearranging the structure of recognizable subject matter with elements of abstract design, I try to develop images that express the essential characteristics of my ideas and, at the same time, provide the viewer with an opportunity to become involved by adding something of his own to the painting."

Business Assoc. to have barbecue

Saddle Mountain Ranch will be the setting for the Carmel Business Association barbecue on Thursday, Sept. 28. The menu will feature Vince Coletto's "fabulous steaks," and the price will be $4.75 per person. A social hour will start the evening's fun at 6 p.m.

Although sponsored by the Carmel Business Association, any others who would like to come and get acquainted are invited and welcome, according to Kay Scott, the association secretary. Fifty new members will also be welcomed into the group at the barbecue.

No phone reservations will be accepted, and each mail reservation must be accompanied by check. Mail to P.O. Box 4444, or stop in at the Business Association office across from the Carmel Post Office.

For those unfamiliar with Saddle Mountain Ranch, it is located mid-Valley, on a private road leading from Schulte Rd. Persons arriving from Carmel would turn right at the First Baptist Church of Carmel Valley and follow the signs.

Reminder

Don't forget the Great Sand Castle Contest, Sunday, Oct. 1. Registration begins at 1 p.m. with judging to start around 2:30. The place is Carmel Beach at 13th Street.

Carmel Museum sponsors Bolshoi ballet film

The Carmel Museum of Art, as its first community project, will present "Bolshoi Ballet 67," a Paramount Pictures presentation at Carmel's Village Theatre, Wednesday, Oct. 4, and Thursday, Oct. 5.

There will be evening performances at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Two matinees are planned each day also. Special arrangements can be made for group showings.

Tickets may be obtained at the museum, Dolores St. north of Seventh Ave., from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. daily. They are $2 for adults; $1.50 for students, and $1 for children.

"Bolshoi Ballet 67" is a lively and unusual color spectacle about the beauty and artful perfection of contemporary Soviet ballet. Viewers are allowed to see the great rehearsal rooms of the Bolshoi and are shown how conscientiously the solo artists and corps de ballet prepare themselves. Then, in a burst of spectacular color and motion, the results are displayed in small one-act ballets and ballet pieces.

Play review

Fine G. B. Shaw at Circle

We are happy to be able to report that a fine team of Golden Bough Players at the Circle Theatre has done right by G.B.S. in its presentation of "Arms and the Man," to continue weekends through October.

All the Shavian wit is there to enjoy, undimmed by the years, along with his still advanced ideas on war, women and the foibles of mankind.

And the players prove themselves worthy of the play. Nick Hovick, sporting a moustache to make him look appropriately older, is a fleeing Swiss mercenary soldier who seeks refuge in the bedroom of Raina, a lovely young lady who turns out to be the daughter of one of his Bulgarian adversaries. Being a spirited Shavian heroine, she is equal to the situation; she feeds him chocolate creams and, making fun of him, calls him a "chocolate soldier."

Anita Whitaker is delightfully feminine, but full of spunk, as the heroine.

The other women in the play also back up our theory that Shaw's ladies are always courageous. Marcia Hovick as the girl's mother, is sure she knows how her husband, a Bulgarian major, should settle the war, and Joan Swartz, as the maid, is no ordinary servant but one who is determined to rise above her station by fair means or foul.

All three are fine parts and Director Norman McPhee found the right actresses to fill them. Mrs. Hovick lights into her role with her usual gusto and she is a fine subtle actress as well. Miss Swartz is attractive in a part that could be an unsympathetic one.

And the men are a match for the ladies. Dick Bird as the henpecked Bulgarian major and William Lewis as a swashbuckling Bulgarian humbug, are a delight to watch. Winston Elstob is properly plodding as the serving man who knows his place.

Nick Hovick as the charming "incurably romantic" soldier, who is also an extremely practical man, adds another memorable character to his repertoire which includes "Billy Liar" and "Charley's Aunt."

Parents concerned about the lack of appropriate film fare for their teenagers, will do well to encourage them to see live actors in this play by a master playwright. "Arms and the Man" would be a fine first taste of Shaw ("My Fair Lady" doesn't count) for high school students. It's one of his funniest and most romantic comedies.

Director McPhee has a happy talent for getting the most action out of every situation. His players never just stand there and emote; they are always on the go. He sets a good example for them in his bit as an eager-for-blood Russian officer, hot on the heels of our hero (safely hidden behind the draperies). He facetiously lists himself on the program as "Alexander Jones," but he didn't fool his first night audience.

Among the many hard-working behind-the-scenes artists are: set design and technical production, Derek Napier Lawford; lighting, William Lewis; stage manager, Anne Fennessy; scenic artist, Carol McPhee; and property mistress, Kim Rowly.

White Oaks preparing winter tours

The summer musical season at White Oaks Theatre has ended and the company has dispersed to their various schools or pursuit of theatrical training and work.

The winter season of touring mainly to schools throughout California has begun

Members of the winter company, recently chosen by audition, include Kathy Holly, Chris Flynn, Mary Elliot, John Herzog, John Prejean, Mike Byers, Pete Medina and Michael S. Riordan.

An introduction to the school tours was given to the cast last week when they presented "Winnie the Pooh" for some 80 third graders from Tularcitos School.

Most of the presentations throughout the state are financed by Federal funds from Title I and Title III programs to school districts which are culturally deprived.

Plays which the touring group will present are "Winnie the Pooh" (for grades kindergarten through sixth), "The Romances," which is the original play from which "The Fantasticks" was adapted (for high school students), and the original musical by Gale Peterson and Tom Janucz, entitled "Well, Here We Are" (which is suitable for all ages, including adults).

Program on Mediterranean Isles to open Explorerama series Oct. 7

The opening event of this year's Explorerama-Carmel series of films will feature international explorer and photographer Nicol Smith who will narrate his prize-winning color travel-adventure documentary motion picture, "Mediterranean Holiday Isles." The series will be held at Sunset Center with the first showing on Saturday, Oct. 7, at 8:15 p.m.

Nicol Smith is an explorer of strange, remote and interesting places. The film he will present in Carmel was filmed in the Mediterranean islands of Malta, Sardinia, Corsica, and Majorca.

Carmel author researches 'Sea Guide'

A 3,000-mile photographic survey trip by plane took Carmel author, Leland Lewis, from Mexicali and the Colorado River delta at the head of the Gulf of California around the tip of Baja California and up the Pacific Coast this past summer.

Lewis is presently at work on the second in a series of "Sea Guides" describing Pacific coastal waters. The present one, scheduled for spring publication deals with the Pacific and Gulf coasts of Baja. The first volume, "Sea Guides, Southern California," was published last year. A third will describe the northern coastal regions.

Lewis was originally invited by the Mexican government to join their Hydrographic Research Expedition aboard the presidential yacht, "Sotovento." Purpose of the journey was to survey and map the harbors and anchorages suitable for small craft along the Pacific and Gulf of California coasts from Ensenada on the west, around the tip at La Paz, and up the eastern coast as far as San Felipe.

Because of mechanical difficulties the sea trip was postponed beyond the time available to Lewis so he was offered the alternative of flying the survey.

The first night of the flight in a Cessna twin-engine Skymaster was spent at Punta Chivato near Mulege on the Gulf coast.

The second night was spent at La Paz after they surveyed the many coves, bays and offshore islands in the Gulf of California.

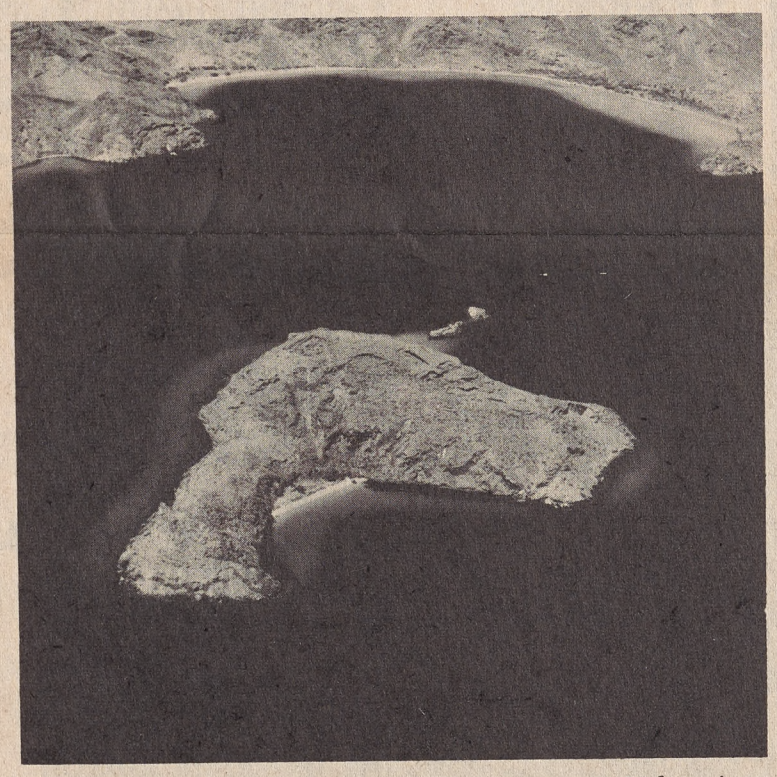
On the third day they flew around the tip and started the journey up the Pacific Coast. They journeyed as far as Magdalena Bay and then flew overland to Loreto for fuel, stopping over for the night.

On the fourth day they returned to the coast at Magdalena Bay and flew northward to Turtle Bay. Enroute they landed at Punta Abreojos for fuel, finding a rusty drum of aviation gasoline which they had to strain through Lewis's shirt to remove impurities, so that they might continue the trip. The last night was spent at Turtle Bay.

In the course of the four-day trip, pilot Peter Poland landed the Skymaster on runways ranging from broad paved airports at Tijuana, Mexicali and La Paz to hard shell and gravel at Loreto, Punta Chivato and Abreojos. There were a few soft gravel and rock strips at some of the more remote spots thrown in for excitement.

Poland, the pilot, had also flown Lewis on the survey trip for his first sea guide book. Richard Webb and Carl Mall of Real Estate Research Corporation, doing a survey of yachting facilities for a client, made up the rest of the crew.

At the end of the four-day flying trip around Baja California, Leland Lewis had made 816 aerial photographs of the coast and 160 ground photos, many of which will be used to illustrate the second "Sea Guide" showing small craft and marine facilities south of the border.



SETTLED IN THE CENTER of Bahia Concepcion near Mulege, is a lovely islet with an enticing white coral beach.

FRAMED IN THE stone archway, sport fishing boats of the new Hotel Borrega de Oro lie quietly on the east coast of Baja California.

Another Farmer's Market will be held by the Zonta Club of the Monterey Peninsula on Saturday, Sept. 30 and Sunday, Oct. 1.

The market will be held again in Eleanor Gamble's barn, near the Begonia Gardens.

Many items in the green thumb department will be available as well as books, records, new and used clothing, antiques, new and used furniture and other treasures.

Refreshments will be served all day (popcorn, hot dogs, coffee and other beverages), in addition to a bake sale and an array of fresh fruits and vegetables to tempt the palate.

A special drawing will be held on Sunday afternoon.

Proceeds from the project will be donated to the Monterey Institute of Speech and Hearing.

Kiwanis

Mark Starr showed slides of the annual Fiesta parade at Santa Barbara at last week's Kiwanis meeting.

Guests were Chuck Mulkey and Sheriff Davenport from Monterey and Doug Baldwin, Salinas, and George Salinger.

The financial report on the Mexican booth which Kiwanians manned at the Fiesta de los Amigos was made with $67.85 going to the Fiesta Committee. Pres. Ricupero praised Chairman Ned Skilling and his assistants, Ray Hanley and Ralph Updike.

Lee Lewis, author of books on yachting and small-boat harbors will speak at the Oct. 3 meeting which will be followed by a golf tourney. Green fees are $3.50 and members who wish to play are asked to call Kevin Walsh at 659-4144 or 4078.

Sierra Club

A bike ride through Carmel Valley is planned by the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club for Sunday, Oct. 15.

Sam Hopkins will lead the group starting at the parking lot of Carmel Valley Village at 9:30 a.m. Mary Gates will act as rear leader.

A car will accompany them to carry food and water. Riders should bring their lunch. Hopkins says the speedy ones can ride on ahead and back again while others proceed at a more leisurely rate.

MR. AND MRS. PERRY ROBERT NOLL, JR.

Patricia Lynn Oenning became the bride of Perry Robert Noll, Jr., in a 6 o'clock ceremony at Highlands Inn Chapel on Tuesday evening, Sept. 12. Chaplain Lutz performed the marriage.

Pat is the daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Oenning (Betty) and the late Joseph H. Oenning of Carmel. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Robert Noll, Sr., of Newport Beach, Calif.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Jack Uzzell, a former Valleyite. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Robert Rutledge Bray III (the former Jody Oenning).

Gunnar E. Watson II of Monterey was the best man. Ushers were Robert Rutledge Bray III and Terry Watson.

The bride's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Uzzell of Monterey and H. Jack Oenning of Texas.

The groom's grandparents, Mrs. Elsie Noll and Mrs. Fern Van Deavender of southern California, accompanied his parents to the wedding.

Other relatives of the groom attending the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Patten of Tajunga.

After the chapel wedding, a reception was held in the Lobos Room of the Highlands Inn.

The young couple will be living in Pacific Grove.

Albert-Freeman rites are held in Pebble Beach

Jane Tyrrell Albert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Albert of Pebble Beach, was united in marriage to Bradford McLean Freeman of Los Angeles in the Erdman Memorial Chapel at Robert Louis Stevenson School on Sept. 16. The 5 p.m. ceremony was performed by the Rev. C.E. Wilson.

A reception on the terrace of the Tennis Ranch followed the late afternoon wedding, with an orchestra playing for dancing.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a silk organza gown appliqued with seed pearls and Alencon lace. Her illusion veil was held with a band of stephanotis.

The bride's two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Malcom (Nancy Albert) of Los Angeles and Terryl Albert of Pebble Beach were matron and maid of honor. They were dressed in azure blue chiffon.

Russell F. Freeman, the bridegroom's brother from Atlanta, Ga., was best man.

The bride is a graduate of Santa Catalina School and received her degree in psychology from Stanford University in August.

An avid tennis player, the new Mrs. Freeman recently won two gold medals for the United States at the Pan-American games in Canada. At the height of her tennis career she was the fourth ranked woman in the United States, twice California State Champion, national inter-collegiate champion and a quarter-finalist at Wimbleton.

Mr. Freeman is a graduate of Harvard School of Business and Stanford University. He is associated with Dean Witter and Co. in Los Angeles.

After a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, the couple plan to live in New York City for several months.

Carmel High School inaugurates co-ed swimming, other sports

Something new—coeducational physical education is being inaugurated at Carmel High in three instances, Rudy Herr, P.E. director, announced this week.

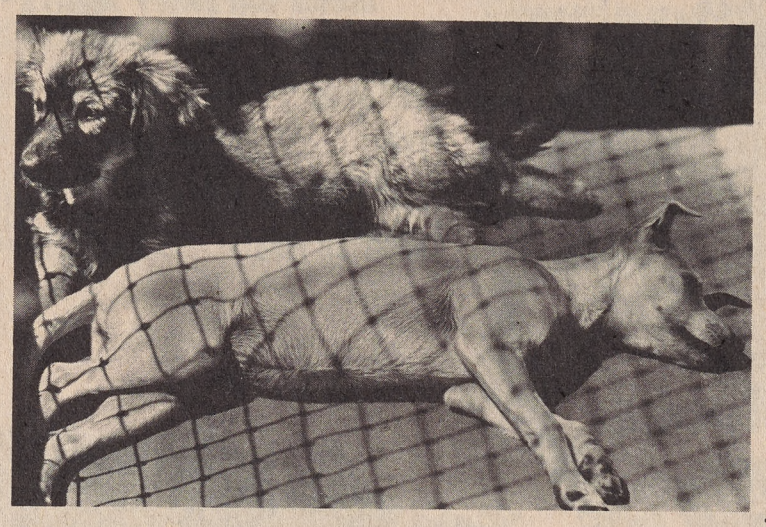
They include beginning swimming, water safety frosh golf and softball.

Chief reason, he explained, is to permit more P.E. activities to be under way at one time, which utilizes the time of coaches more efficiently and gives students more choice as well.

"There is also the social value," he added.

Answering objections of girls who have been dubious about wearing clinging "tank suits" in classes with boys, Herr said that girls would now be permitted to wear suits they bring from home if they desire.

Pets of the Week



PUPPY PORTRAITS by Peter illustrate the wide variety of dogs one has to choose from at the SPCA Animal Shelter.

Smooth, sleek, perk-eared types; furry, plume-tailed, floppy-eared fellows... all you have to do is name your preference. The knowledgeable people at the shelter can even predict how tall they will grow so one may choose a pet to fit his house or yard. The pup of your choice is yours for the asking plus license fee and vet bills. The shelter is at 2099 David Ave., New Monterey, phone 375-3333.

Carmel High School enrollment climbs; 53 more than in '66

Carmel High School enrollment climbed to 960 as of last Friday, 53 more than last year, Principal Arthur Gumbrell announced.

"We're making a supreme effort to balance out our classes," he commented, because school opened more crowded than anticipated. Some students are being shifted to even class size.

To relieve some of the pressure, he is looking for a part-time language teacher, to assist with French and Spanish.

Saul Alinsky to talk at MPC

Saul Alinsky of Carmel and Chicago, who has spent over a quarter of a century as a professional slum organizer and has been called "a born hell-raiser, hate monger and rabble rouser," will lecture at Monterey Peninsula College Friday.

He will speak at 8 p.m. in the National Guard Armory on campus. Free tickets are available at the college administration building switchboard or may be obtained by mail from the Community Services Office.

Quoting a S.F. Architect:

"After the cars and toilets are properly housed, we can start worrying about the people, but by that time there isn't all that much space left..."
(Via Herb Caen)

There's space left in THIS house (even though it does have four beautiful bathrooms and a huge garage)! There's a gracious living room, lushly carpeted, with a quiet library or music corner off to one side. Step down into what must be one of the most interesting family dining rooms in the Valley, with its wide view of the green hills. The kitchen is plenty big enough for the whole family to cook at one time, and laundry equipment is in a large separate service room where it belongs.

Space for the children in the handsome west wing with three bedrooms and two tiled baths, or two bedrooms and fine TV room or den. Space for parents in an interesting master suite at the end of the house. Even space for that treasured parent who lives with you, or your favored guests, in a separate guest suite which includes a delightful kitchenette and a glamorous bath. Firewood, tools and garden equipment are all housed in properly separate storage rooms.

Yes, this house was planned to provide much more than just space for its utilities. It's the California ranch house you've so wanted to find for your family, in the sunshine of Carmel Valley, with the Village nearby and the school bus on the corner, as handsomely decorated as a San Francisco towne house. Immaculate condition inside and out. On 1 1/2 acres, with carpets, draperies, appliances all included. Come and see this new listing with us!

Carmel Currents

What price glory?

20, 25 or 100%, Stewart explained. His office informs the city each year of the total value of real estate in Carmel. The city council levies the amount of money needed to operate the city with a tax rate applied to this annual valuation.

PROPERTY TAX RELIEF... Stewart's suggestions for possible tax relief to property owners were: cut spending; increase the sales tax; impose a local income tax.

MAYOR GRANT... Only 16% of each property owner's county tax bill goes to operate the City of Carmel, Mayor Steve Grant pointed out. This percentage represents 28% of the funds required for city operation. The business district contributes 64%. The rest of the required money comes to the city from other sources.

One cent of the current $1.23 tax rate represents $2,400 expenditure, he added. During budget sessions councilmen decided which were the most important $2,400 units in respect to providing services citizens demand. He stressed that the current tax rate is 7 cents lower than last year and this decrease is a direct result of higher reassessments which provided a greater tax base. However, increased expenses such as the rising cost of wages prevented lowering the city tax rate further. Tax bills will be higher.

REMEDY SOUGHT... Mayor Grant said the city is seeking to remedy the tax situation. A business administration consultant, Dr. Melvin Steckler, is looking into the municipality's organization and working out "sophisticated methods of analysis" with a view to cutting costs.

SCHOOL TAXES... Clayton Neill Jr. informed the town meeting audience that the Carmel Unified School District is not typical in California. Carmel has few pupils in respect to population and a high assessed property valuation.

As a result CUSD is almost totally dependent on the local taxpayer for income, receiving 86% of its income from local taxation as compared to a state average of 55%. From the state, CUSD gets only basic aid funds amounting to $125 per pupil per year. This aid has only increased $5 per pupil in the past five years regardless of escalating education costs.

Education programs mandated by the state must be enacted and required teachers hired, but no source of revenue is given for these programs. Neill emphasized that not one school financing bill now before the state legislature provides property tax relief for CUSD.

TAX LOWERED... Reassessment by the county this year gave the school board a broader tax base, Neill stated. Consequently, school taxes this year will not include the entire 37 cent override approved by voters in April. Ten cents of the override will not be levied. CUSD taxation for other purposes is down one cent. These reductions amount to 11 cents and are a result of higher property valuations.

Current CUSD cost of education per pupil is $800. Demand for services, such as transportation in the district's large area, and wage costs, contribute to this high figure, also the low ratio of pupils per teacher, Neill indicated.

SENATOR GRUNSKY... The constitution states that property owners must be taxed equally, Sen. Grunsky observed. Reassessment, he stressed, gives a higher property value base on which to levy taxes. What percentage of this base is used makes no difference in the total amount of tax paid by property owners.

He said that the trend in Sacramento is towards eliminating state basic aid to "rich" districts... those with high assessed values and a low ratio of pupils to population such as CUSD.

OUTSIDE AID... Added revenue for school districts from federal and state funds is being sought in Sacramento "but these are still your tax dollars," Grunsky said.

Locally, the only recommendations for property tax relief he could foresee were economy in government and elimination of services.

LEGISLATION... "We want to give you tax relief, especially in education," he emphasized and indicated legilation towards this end included tax assistance for senior citizens with limited incomes and creation of a reserve to reimburse local governments for revenue loss resulting from elimination of household furnishings and business inventory levies.

ARNOT ARGUES... Harold C. Arnot, taxpayers association president, expounded on the burden of taxation loaded on residential property owners.

"Jeopardizing the home life of a community by indiscriminately adding taxes without any determination of ability to pay cannot be justified," he declared.

He deplored confusing references to assessed values and tax rates... "vague comparisons which do nothing to clarify the real cost." In this respect he cited that CUSD, comparatively, has one of the lowest tax rates in the state but one of the highest education costs per pupil; also that the City of Carmel has the lowest tax rate of Monterey Peninsula cities but the highest cost for fire, police, street and library services.

RECOMMENDATIONS.... Arnot recommended consideration should be given to changing the present property tax law to provide separate taxation for commercial and residential property; a charge for the value of services performed instead of property tax levies; education taxation on homes be limited to not more than 50% of the state average cost per pupil; new funds to meet rising costs.

NORBERG PROTESTS... City Councilman Norberg assailed "fantastically raised assessments"; construction of the new police station, corporation yard and public works department facility (being financed with hostelry tax funds); and allocation of state "windfall" revenue.

He proposed that state law be changed to provide that residential property not be reassessed except following a sale.

At the conclusion of the town meeting, Adm. C.W. Fisher, president of the Carmel Citizens Committee, adjured those present as follows: "We have the power. We have the vote. If we are dissatisfied with our taxes it's up to us to write, to speak out, to vote."

Capt. Frank Falge, as chairman, introduced the speakers. He announced that Supervisor Willard Branson, who was to have been a panelist, was hospitalized.

WHAT PRICE GLORY?.... Carmel's zoning ordinance states that business and commerce shall be subordinate to the residential character of the city. With this definition in mind, laws have been made which protect the forest setting of the residence zone, preserve the municipal beach in its natural state and stringently control business zone development. As a result Carmel is famed throughout the United States and beyond for its unique beauty.

But glory has its price... visitors, thousands of them. How do they affect the economy of the city?

Visitors mean hostelries, shops and related businesses. Last year income from these sources amounted to approximately 68% of Carmel's revenue.

The 4% tax of overnight accommodations garnered $138,141 for the city. The city's one-cent sales tax yielded $240,580. Business license fees brought in $47,855. Income from other sources related to business or visitors amounted to $10,586. Total income from Carmel businesses and hostelries was $437,162.

City revenue from property tax was $264,686.

GUEST STAR... Television viewers will see a boy who grew up in Carmel on their screens. Actor Richard Sargent, known in his Sunset School days as Dick Cox, was here last week as guest star for a "Rat Patrol" program being filmed on the Peninsula. An interested spectator of some of the shooting was Dick's sister, Mrs. Edie Cox Clancy of Carmel.
